Commercial Grade KOCHI YUZU

Kochi Prefecture is where about 40% of Japan's yuzu (citrons) are produced. The villages of Kitagawa and Umaji, which are famous as producers of yuzu, are surrounded by high mountains. They are located in tranquil "valleys with the fragrance of yuzu," which recall the old-fashioned goodness of Japanese village life. White yuzu flowers blossom in mid-May, and the harvest period is from late October through all of November. During this time, the villages are awash in yellow, and the fragrance of yuzu fills the valley.
