HIGASHIYAMA NISEKO VILLAGE, A RITZ-CARLTON RESERVE FACT SHEET

RESORT OVERVIEW:

Higashiyama Niseko Village, a Ritz-Carlton Reserve, is a rare sanctuary of bespoke luxury nestled in the premier powder snow destination of Niseko Village in Hokkaido, northern Japan. This is the first Ritz-Carlton Reserve property in Japan, and the fifth in the world. Inspired by Kachou Fuugetsu which encourages self-discovery through the transient beauty of nature and wellbeing, the resort's design concept reflects this ancient Japanese philosophy via the use of indigenous tactile aesthetics and unique sensory experiences. With a design aesthetic inspired by the beauty of its natural surroundings, the resort's 50 rooms and suites offer breathtaking views of Mount Yotei, known as the "Mount Fuji of Hokkaido", as well as Mount Niseko Annupuri.

LOCATION:

Higashiyama Niseko Village, a Ritz-Carlton Reserve is located within Niseko Village, Japan's award-winning powder mecca which is renowned for its dry champagne powder at low-altitude, variety of ski terrains, world-class Niseko Village Snow School and its Niseko Kids™ programs and guided snow activities. This fully integrated alpine destination sits at the base of Mount Niseko Annupuri within the Niseko United ski area, offering access to a combined 2,191 acres of world-class skiable terrain and extensive backcountry skiing. State-of-the-art ski lifts and gondolas provide all-season connectivity to the village centre where specialty restaurants, bars and shops are situated.

Higashiyama Niseko Village welcomes guests to explore and discover the area's more than 2,100 acres of skiable terrain, groomed slopes and backcountry trails in the winter. In the summer, Niseko's emerald green forests and lush landscapes invite golfers, cyclists, trekkers and other outdoor adventure seekers to come and play.
PERONSAL HOST:	The Do San personifies the Reserve service for each guest at Higashiyama Niseko Village, a Ritz-Carlton Reserve. Aptly named in honor of the locale and its history, Do San means “a person of Hokkaido”. These trusted and dedicated personal hosts will oversee every aspect of the guests’ stay through a single touchpoint. Always available but never intrusive, the Do San ensures guests’ needs are anticipated and met seamlessly yet seemingly effortless.
